

Pallbearers

*Brian Mitchell
Rick "Doc" Walker
John Riggins
LaVar Arrington
Joe Jacoby
Trevor Matich*

"Hail to the Deadskins"

*Hail to the Deadskins,
No victory.
We can't score touchdowns,
We just take the three!*

*Run or pass and score, we need a lot more,
Portis doesn't practice 'cause his foot's sore.
Gripe on, gripe on 'til Vin-ny's gone
Shame in Wash-ing-ton
Boo, Boo, Boo!*

*Hail to the Deadskins,
No victory.
Let's grab Dan Snyder
Hang him from a tree!*

Funeral Arrangements (Ten Years in the Making)

*by
Snyder/Cerrato Funeral Home
Ashburn, Virginia*

Memorial Service

WASHINGTON DEADSKINS

Sunrise: 1932 - Sunset: 2009

FedExField Landover, Maryland

Obituary

The Washington Deadskins, born the Boston Braves in 1932, passed away in October 2009, following a ten-year long illness inflicted upon it by team owner Daniel M. Snyder and pseudo-general manager Vinny Cerrato. After several false alarms and faint glimmers of playoff hope, the once proud franchise developed a fatal aversion to the end-zone, and succumbed in a slow, painful death. The team leaves behind thousands of disgruntled fans, angry tailgaters, and despondent season ticket holders, as well as tons of unsold Deadskins merchandise, one puzzled quarterback, and an emasculated head coach.

Oh, how the once mighty have fallen!

Order of Service

Processional

Hymn "Hail to the Deadskins"

*Testimonials Norv Turner, Terry Robiskie, Marty Schottenheimer,
Steve Spurrier, and Joe Gibbs*

Apology to Fans Daniel M. Snyder & Vinny Cerrato

Eulogy Jim Zorn (this could take a while)

Hymn "Amazing Disgrace"

Benediction Brian Mitchell (got to have the last word)

Recessional

Burial at FedExField

(Just short of the north end-zone)

followed by a torch and pitchfork march to the homes of Dan Snyder and Vinny Cerrato.

Repast at Johnny Rocket's overpriced burgers and shakes.